

SHOPPING

by Naila Chbib

New spots to shop in the Hamptons have opened this season. Enjoy shopping at some of the top designers' luxury retail stores in a classy and slightly bohemian-chic environment.

TOMMY HILFIGER

Tommy Hilfiger just opened his first store in East Hampton. Intimate and vibrant, the 1,850 square foot interior is traditional-meets-modern. Walls are accented in leather and walnut and adorned with antique brass fixtures. Both women's and men's products, including vintage, will be offered. For summer 2009, the store will open with Hamptons Bohemia, a selection of items inspired by the nautical character of the Hamptons, featuring lobster prints and cricket sweaters. Men's and women's will include a mix of US and European sportswear, with men's also having tailored and women's the runway collection and swimwear.

Location:
69 Main Street, East Hampton

COUP DE COEUR

Coup de Coeur is a stylish concierge firm providing a variety of shopping-based services and the company will be in the Hamptons this season. Coup de Coeur founders Amanda Doll Sheppard and Lucia Marcelle Talt work hands on with each and every client. So if you need any help and are looking for outstanding shopping services and VIP treatment while in the Hamptons, Coup de Coeur will be there. The firm offers high-end personalized shopping tours with customized shopping lists and focused itinerary adapted to each client.

URBAN ZEN STORE

Donna Karan's Urban Zen store in Sag Harbor has been open since early May. The Urban Zen store carries Urban Zen men's and women's clothing collections (designed by Donna Karan), children's clothing (designed by Bonnie Young), accessories, books, furniture, decorative items for the home, and artifacts from around the world. Urban Zen is Donna Karan's new paradigm of retail: where philanthropy and commerce come together to create change. A portion of all sales are donated to the Urban Zen Foundation, a public charity dedicated to promoting wellbeing, empowering children, and preserving cultures.
